Tax Collections Reach New High

Town Treasurer Francis A. Coughlin has informed the Advocate that collection credits for the Town of Arlington totaled $8,588,860.81 in 1958.

This figure represents a new record, exceeding that of 1957 by slightly under half a million dollars.

"Of $5,865,858.00 committed by the Board of Assessors in real estate, personal property and poll taxes in 1958, the balance of those outstanding on December 31, 1958 was only $112,409.35," he stated. "This shows a collection percentage of 98.1%—which is almost exactly that of 1957, the highest in recent years. "Arlington citizens may be proud of their consistent record of prompt payment of taxes which has enabled the town to market its issues of municipal bonds and notes at very favorable interest rates," Coughlin noted.

Weather Conditions Cause 10 Accidents

Ten accidents were reported here this week as icy roads, fog, and snow hampered driving conditions.

Most of the mishaps were minor with no personal injury.

Two people were injured Sunday when the taxi-cab in which they were riding was involved in an accident at the corner of Massachusetts ave., and Medford st.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Burdett of Augusta, Me., were taken to Symmes Hospital. Mr. Burdett was kept overnight for observation.

Twenty seven candidates were still in the running for Arlington's six major offices Monday when the deadline for filing nomination papers was reached.

In all, five men, including favorite Timothy Buckley, dropped out of the Town Clerk's race.

Doctors' Cars Looted In Series Of Thefts

A wave of car burglaries here this week brought about a warning from Police Chief Albert E. Ryan yesterday that all motorists lock their unoccupied cars.

Ryan added that any merchandise in vehicles should be locked in the trunk rather than left in view of possible car thieves. "They show no hesitancy about breaking windows," he said.

Town Funds Sought To Aid AYA Program

A delegation of AYA officials appeared before the Selectmen this week in an effort to obtain financial support from the Town for the popular AYA program.

The request was necessitated, an official said, by the decreasing successes of the AYA in obtaining financial support from the residents.

Appearing for the AYA were Tony Quattrocchi, Robert Brosnan, Joseph Sliney, Ike Prescho, Ed Wagner and Herbert Merrill.

They asked for $2,500 from the Town to help the program.

Mothers' March Collects $4,500

Sunday's Mothers March against polio brought a tremendous response from Arlington residents, according to Chairman Robert E. Mahoney.

Not only did the 400 volunteers collect $4,500, a $500 increase over last year, but the largest single contribution ever received here, $350, was also donated by a resident.

Arlington was the only community in Middlesex County to show a substantial increase this year, Mahoney said.

Leaders in the Mothers March included Mrs. Margaret Hutchinson, Mrs. Mary Richardson, Mrs. Bea Rogers, Mrs. Palladini, Mrs. Dorothy Bottolfsen, Mrs. Lorraine Paradis, Mrs. June French, Mrs. Marie Abbott, Mrs. Cathy Donlin, Mrs. Marion Nugent, Mrs. Lucille Corcoran.

Also aiding in the drive were the Arlington Civil Defense radio "hams" and the Auxiliary Police.

13-Year-Old Boy Rescued At Lake

A 13-year-old Lake Shore drive boy was rescued from drowning at the Lower Mystic Monday afternoon when he was pulled to safety by a 17-year-old neighbor, after the ice gave way.

According to police, Donald Webb, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Webb of 6 Lake Shore drive went through the ice at the foot of Beverly rd., about 30 feet from shore.

David Flaherty, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Flaherty of 354 Mystic st., also skating in the area, saw the younger boy go under and promptly dove into the icy water.

Flaherty waded out until the water reached his neck and then thrust a hockey stick to the Webb boy who was just going under for the second time.

The floundering youngster grabbed the stick, and Flaherty pulled him to safety.

Mrs. Webb saw her son go through the ice and notified Arlington police.

Within seconds, three patrol cars, fire apparatus equipment, two rescue boats, and an MDC delegation were racing to the scene.

But Flaherty had finished his job when they arrived and both boys were lodged in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowly at 83 Beverly rd., when authorities arrived.

Suburbia In Advocate Of Feb. 5

The movement of 9,000,000 Americans from cities to suburbs in the last ten years is "the greatest migration in the nation's history," says Robert C. Wood, author of Suburbia: Its People and Their Politics, published Jan. 13 by Houghton Mifflin.

Wood, assistant professor of economics at the Mass. Institute of Technology, is himself one of the 9,000,000 having recently moved with his family to Lincoln, Massachusetts, 25 minutes from Harvard Sq.

In an exclusive interview with Suburbia today he discusses the problems raised by this migration, and the solution.

Also featured in February is a lively and informative article on a new vehicle for commuters the helicopter. The day is coming, and quickly, when you'll finish your morning coffee, kiss your wife good-bye, and be whisked off to your office by helicopter.

The "8:44 Whirlybird" will appear in our new magazine supplement with your Advocate Feb. 5.

The food pages this month feature recipes that will come in handy for all mid-winter party givers.

"Party Coolies" offers some of the most delicious and exciting ideas for fancy aparty petit-fours or just plain cookies. And they're all kitchen tested and pre tasted. There's lots more, including articles on house-hunting and on the drama-packed life of a school bus driver "Two-four-six-eight, who do we appreciate? Busman!"

At the end, for easy reference, you will find two pages on the latest news in books and records and movies; and "Cross Country Classified," which covers good buys for house and home—in this particular issue, everything from a bamboo planter to natural Norwegian yarn.

Scriptural selections to be read in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love" include this one (I John 4:21): "And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (51:15): "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

Symmes Gets Jeep

A new Kaiser-Willys jeep, obtained through the cooperation of Mr. Ralph McManus of the Mystic Valley Motors, has been added to the maintenance department of Symmes Hospital.

Everett Van Valkenburgh, administrator, pointed out that "this addition comes at a most opportune time of year, since the steep hill leading to the hospital has presented many transportation problems in bad weather."

"Many times, during bad storms, it has been necessary to arrange for the pick-up of key personnel, and on occasion, patients have been transported from the bottom of the hill to the hospital."

"It is also used for snow-plowing the driveway and parking area, heavy hauling, and many other chores that only a four-wheel drive can do," he said.

Planning Board To Insert Three Zoning Change Articles

At its meeting on Jan. 21, the Planning Board voted to request the insertion of three articles in the Town Warrant.

The first article is a request to revise the Zoning By-Law of the Town of Arlington. In connection with this John B.

Byrne Jr., chairman, stated, "The Planning Board is recommending that the town amend its zoning by-law by striking out the present by-law and adopting the by-law proposed by the Planning Board. The complete text will be published as a legal notice in local papers on Feb. 5 and copies will be mailed to all town meeting members before March 16.

"We find that the Planning Board which prepared our present by-law which was adopted in 1946 did an excellent job -- that in fact, some large cities have only recently accepted zoning regulations which Arlington has had for thirteen years.

"Practically the only change we are proposing for the residential districts is a requirement for more open space surrounding apartment houses in the Residence C district to give increased protection to abutters.

"However, since 1946 the town of Arlington, like most suburbs has had to meet increased demands with a rising tax rate.

"The Joint Planning Committee appointed in 1953 to study ways of broadening the tax base believed that while the framework of an attractive residential community should be maintained, certain changes in land use could be made which might result in an increased volume of business and commerce.

"The Committee urged that before changes in land use were approved by the Town Meeting, that additional protection for residential and business property be secured by amendments to zoning regulations for our retail districts and commercial areas and that additional provisions for off-street loading be adopted.

"During the past year our Board has discussed these proposals with the Development Commission, builders, business men, civic groups and town officials, and as a result has made a few minor changes in the Joint Planning Committee's recommendations."

The Planning Board is also requesting an article in the Warrant for a change in the zoning Map by rezoning to Residence C a strip of land approximately 175 feet deep back of the present business A zoning along Massachusetts Avenue. This is to encourage the building of apartment houses.

The rezoning of the Russell Common from park use to business use will be recommended so that this municipal land will be zoned in accordance with the town's by-law.

Public hearings will be held on these articles in the Hearing Room of Town Hall on Friday evening, Feb. 20.

A Which Hunt, Not Witch!

The fact that a fire alarm signal, pulled in at a majority of our schools, only starts the corridor bells clanging is enough to make anyone's spine tingle.

In brief, if a teacher or pupil should see or sense a fire and then should "break the glass and pull down the handle" nothing, other than the ringing of bells to evacuate, would happen!

When outside the building, with all concerned being thankful for their safety, someone must remember to pull in the external alarm to fire headquarters.

This situation is true in ten out of Arlington's fourteen school buildings, according to the Town Manager.

The reason for this study and astonishing revelation was the recent fire in a parochial school in Chicago. And, of course, the local "bleeding" of hydrants, periodically, is due to the Crosby fire which was truly disastrous from a financial viewpoint and came within a timber or two of being tragic as to human life.

When one ponders the full impact of such stupidity in people who have received high praise as paid public officials or greatly esteemed private citizens who gave "so freely of their precious time" or state officials, or architects and planners—all living or dead—we should do a bit of re-evaluating.

A witch hunt never saved a life—in fact, more are lost.

Instead, we should have a "which hunt" as to who shall run our affairs in the future. When are we going to learn that twenty-five years in public office, a million bucks in a bank, elevation through the various "chairs" are an indication of some degree of excellence above the human norm, but not much more?

In fact, sometimes the accomplishments listed, above indicate the desirability of immediate retirement, not encouragement.

That Man About Town

By MAT

What a difference a week makes!

Last week at this time, the team of Tim Buckley for Town Clerk and John O. Parker for Selectman, was a powerful force, one favored to capture both spots in the Town election.

But Buckley has withdrawn, scrambling the situation even more than it was two weeks ago.

Parker now faces stiff opposition from John B. Byrne Jr. and Philibert Pellegrini, two powerful candidates.

However, let us not forget, John O. Parker is very strong and will do well, teamed or alone.

Buckley's withdrawal also changed the picture in the Town Clerk's campaign. Nine candidates filed papers but there are rumors aplenty that some will drop out before the deadline.

Without Buckley, you've got to look at four candidates as possible winners. There's Selectman Franklin W. Hurd, Russ Wedge, Ann Mahon and Ralph LaValle.

We understand that a meeting of the candidates was held last week to narrow down the field. But it couldn't have been too successful with only five dropping out of contention. The meeting was not under the "auspices" of the Democratic Town Committee, just (more or less) called by it.

One interesting item which came out of the meeting was the result of an informal poll taken among the candidates themselves. They were asked to write the name of the person they felt was their strongest opponent for Town Clerk. Winner of the poll? Ann Mahon, as we hear it.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

(An Advocate feature in which readers are invited to express their views and opinions. This feature is printed every week to give an indication of the thinking of you, the public.)

To "Mat": As a U.S. citizen, as a voter and tax payer of this town, thru the medium of this paper, I wish to take exception to your remarks as printed in the Advocate of Jan. 22.

First, nothing can be placed in "finality" until the citizens of this town go to the polls and place the x after the name of his or her choice for any office.

Second, if, as you say, many folks in this town have said, "That's it" in reference to Tim Buckley, may I ask if these people are not entitled to the affirmation of their own convictions, or do you think every one should think as you.

Third, who are you to place in the minds of those reading your comments the idea that Tim Buckley has reached the top rung of a V. A. ladder and that his running for Town Clerk would see him drop a couple of rungs? Do you feel qualified to state Tim Buckley's personal affairs? I think not, in fact, I know you know nothing regarding his personal mode of life.

Fourth, where were you when Mr. Buckley was elected a Town Meeting Member?

Fifth, you and others in your class can not find one single blemish on the character of Tim Buckley, no stigma of anything unfavorable that undesirable politicians stoop to.

Therefore, since some "dirt" must be printed you must try to bring out the fact that he had never run for an elective office.

Please let me state, that I feel quite confident as do many of my friends from all walks of life, that had he so desired to run for a particular office, he would have been elected.

Tim Buckley was born in this town of wonderful and hard working parents. He was the oldest of eight boys and when just a small boy sold newspapers, and in this way helped his parents and so on up the line. He has been an active citizen of Arlington.

He has served on many many non paying committees. He has been a friend to all who sought his help or advice. He has been "above board" on all matters.

He is known nationally for his ability.

NO DIRECT CONTACT Edward C. Monahan Town Manager

Dear Mr. Monahan: Replying to your letter of Dec. 18, 1958, pertaining to interior fire alarm systems in various public schools, a survey was made on Dec. 23, by Lester W. Cameron, assistant superintendent of Fire and Police Signal Systems, Fire Chief Thomas H. Egan, George H. Greim, supervisor of Maintenance and Custodians, and a representative from the Gamewell Co.

The results of this survey are in detail as to recommendations and costs in the attached report submitted by the Gamewell Co.

In the report you will note that there are ten schools which do not have direct contact through the existing alarm system with the Fire Department when the interior fire alarm is activated.

This could cause through forgetfulness a long delay in the fire department responding to a fire which has proven very disastrous in the recent Chicago school fire.

Therefore, it is recommended that immediate procedure be taken to provide funds at the next annual Town Meeting for converting the existing manual interior fire alarm systems in the ten specified schools to an automatic call system, which will provide contact with the fire department when an inside fire alarm station is activated.

In reference to the heat detecting systems mentioned in the report, we recommend that the installation of this system be given due consideration at a later date.

Respectfully submitted, George H. Greim Supervisor of Maint. & Sus. Thomas H. Egan Fire Chief Lester W. Cameron Assist. Supt. Fire & Police Signal System.

To the Editor: May I have the privilege, through your newspaper, to thank Mrs. Mary Boyd and Mr. M. Norcross Stratton for the years of valuable service which they have given to us? They have served on the school committee unselfishly and unstintingly. I commend them highly for this. They represent the kind of individual which we as citizens and voters of Arlington must continue to endorse and elect.

Very Sincerely, Ruth Milley

JAMES J. GOLDEN

The family of the late James J. Golden was deeply touched by the many expressions of sympathy extended at the time of their bereavement and wish to gratefully acknowledge sincere appreciation.

Behind the Business Scene

by REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 — If you're in the market for a home—either brand new or lived-in—this year, you'll find it more difficult to get the home you want at the price you expect to pay.

Government departments and private commercial services that gather statistics on housing estimate that new home costs will be up from $200 to $800, and building lots will be higher, too.

Insurance and mortgage rates are likely to go up this year. And the city or town that enjoys a lower real estate tax this year than last will be the exception. Charges for services such as sewage disposal, trash collection and water are on the upswing, too, and most homeowners will be hit whether the services are provided by the municipality or whether they're contracted for directly by the resident.

Repairs will cost more, too. The painter, the plumber, the carpenter, the TV repairman and the washing machine or furnace fixer all likely will want more per job.

DO-IT-YOURSELF HOMES — Are people interested in building their own homes to save high labor costs? Ira Gordon of Elizabeth, Pa., thinks they are. He has done business with some 15,000 persons who are living in homes they built themselves.

Gordon is head of Swift Homes, a pre-cut operation, and has sold some 25,000 "do-it-yourself" home packages through his dealers East of the Mississippi. About three out of five of these homes were owner-erected. The rest had the help of local Swift Homes dealers.

Swift home kits range from $1,750 to $4,900. The lumber is pre-cut to fit the plan chosen. Step-by-step directions are provided in a manual written by a woman who built her home the Swift way. Dealers are equipped to provide low-cost finishing materials, to assist in obtaining local contractors if needed, and to help arrange financing.

THINGS TO COME — For the color blind male, a New York custom shop sews a small piece of its shirting material on each of its ties, thus helping the wearer match the two articles of apparel. . . A new vaccine due on the market later this year is said to be successful in counteracting seven of the ten common cold viruses. . . And for the few drive-in movie attendees who really care whether it's cold outside, there's a new heating unit that can warm 30 cars through a duct system.

TAX CHANGE NEEDED Latest government statistics show per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in the U.S. at a record low of 1.25 gallons annually. The distilling industry itself is helping to promote general temperance by marketing whiskies that are lighter, smoother and lower in proof.

Yet, according to a leading U.S. distiller, excise tax laws in most states put a tax penalty on efforts in the latter direction. State tax rates for 80 proof whiskey are generally the same as for 100 proof, reports Lewis S. Rosenstiel, chairman and president of Schenley Industries, Inc., and therefore "the distiller is left without any incentive to market lower-proof whiskies and the consumer is given no incentive to buy them."

SUCCESS FORMULA Quickest way to sales success for a book, a play or a movie once was to get it canned in Boston. Now, Soviet disapproval can do the trick, and bring financial success to an artist. Boris Pasternak, Russian author of "Dr. Zhivago," probably is a paper millionaire by now.

Royalties for Pasternak are said to be flowing into a Swiss bank. The book has been translated into 17 languages. Five European versions alone have sold more than 810,000 copies — at 50 cents royalty each. Twenty U.S. editions, some 600,000 volumes, worth $3 million retail, have sold out, with Pasternak getting 10 to 15 per cent of the $5 purchase price.

But as far as Pasternak is concerned, such success can be counted only as "paper profits." It's doubtful whether he'll ever be able to lay hands on the money unless he leaves Russia.

BITS O' BUSINESS — Prolonged cold spell over most of the nation sets new records almost daily for gas and fuel oil consumption, with a New England utility reporting its sales 39 per cent ahead of a year ago. . . Record-breaking crowds at New York Boat Show presage new highs in attendance for constantly growing list of such exhibits in other cities. . . Ivy League annual tuition costs, which ten years ago averaged $600 a year, now are soaring into the $1400 bracket.

Reasons For Property Taxes

Massachusetts ranks second in the United States in its number of non-school public employees, the Taxpayers Federation declares. Only New York, of all the 48 states outside Massachusetts, according to the Taxpayers Federation.

A principal reason for exorbitant property tax rates in Massachusetts is the high degree of state and local services provided Bay State citizens. National employment statistics provide a basic measure of the extent of governmental services but they do not tell the complete story of government costs. For example, wide differences exist among the states in average public salaries.

A high employment figure does not necessarily indicate more extensive or elaborate services. It may sometimes mean a lower level of employee efficiency. In Massachusetts' case, it definitely indicates the effect of shorter working hours for some employee groups as compared with other states.

In many major respects such as length of public payrolls for most services, shortness of working hours, value of fringe benefits, liberality of public assistance programs, the burden on the Massachusetts tax structure are among the nation's heaviest.

This factor, in combination with the depreciated values of so much Bay State real estate, readily accounts for the unprecedented level of Massachusetts property taxes.

The Great Ice Crush

In New Bedford, 1871 is remembered as the year "the roof fell in," the occasion being the loss of 34 whaleships in Alaskan ice fields. Having made millions in Arctic whaling, the shoe was on the other foot when this disaster cost the whaling city $2,000,000 in losses.

An early freeze that year had been predicted by the Eskimos but the advice to get out had been disregarded, the large whaling fleet eventually being trapped on the Alaskan shore between Icy Cape and Point Belcher.

Remarkable in this mass shipwreck was the escape of every member of the fleet, 1,219 souls, among whom were several wives and children of whaling captains. All safely traveled three days down the coast through a violent gale to be rescued by seven whalers in open water. A half scale model of the "Lagoda," one of the receiving ships, may be found today in New Bedford's Whaling Museum, a reminder of a great deed performed by a small vessel.

A ship only 108 feet long and already crowded with a crew of 36, the "Lagoda" took aboard 195 of the miserable refugees and landed them at Honolulu, a welcome contrast to frozen Alaska.

The abandoned vessels fared not so well. The crushing ice and pillaging Eskimos left only one vessel fit to sail when summer returned. No whalers sail from New Bedford today but the Eskimos of Point Barrow still whale in New Bedford whaleboats with abandoned harpoons and gear left from a once great industry.

Greenland Pictures at Museum

The breathtaking beauty of ice-studded Greenland is visible in Boston this week with a series of mounted photographs now on display in the Coolidge Gallery at the Museum of Science.

Entitled "Arctic Riviera," the series of 65 photographs, 11 x 14 inches in size, will be exhibited through the month of February.

They have been lent to the Museum by Ernest Hofer, chief of the photographic laboratory for the Swiss Topographic Survey. Mr. Hofer took these amazing pictures while on a recent scientific expedition to Greenland. Together with text describing the scenery, the photographs were published in book form by the Bern firm of Kummerly and Frey under the title, "Arctic Riviera."

Among the scenes depicted are gleaming icebergs, tranquil landscapes, and sandstone mountains. Photos were also taken of many of the Greenland natives and of the camp site used by the expedition.

The Museum is now open to visitors on Friday nights until 10 p.m., in addition to its regular weekday hours of 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. It is closed on Mondays.

Travel And Be Paid

Receiving recent reports about two young Arlington men and their activities abroad while with the U. S. Foreign Service, brings to mind that the Service offers much to young men and women.

The requirements while exacting are not impossible for most to attain.

One must be at least 21 years of age, a high school graduate, single with no dependents, a citizen for at least five years, and have had office experience.

Oh---and of course, will travel! The U. S. maintains 280 posts in 80 countries.

The pay starts at $3730 per year, plus housing and overseas allowances.

Those interested should contact the Personnel Officer, U. S. Dept. of State, who will be during the month of February at the Mass. State Employment Office, Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL DEPARTMENT:

At the rate new schools are being built here and elsewhere, it is becoming apparent that the ideal number of children in each classroom is one.

[Correspondence] CABLEGRAM

Commander Fidel Castro Republic of Cuba The Capitol Building Havana, Cuba Sir:

People of America and all over the world are deeply shocked and horrified by the political executions now taking place in Cuba. In this hour of the twentieth century of Christian civilization mankind in all nations has come to have confidence in a higher level and quality of justice.

In the spirit of peace on earth and the brotherhood of man, I appeal to you on the part of countless Americans and plead with you to temper with mercy the punishment of your fellow countrymen who have been quickly judged to be guilty of wrongs against the people of Cuba.

I appeal to you for a fair trial of the accused. I appeal to you for a pattern of justice that brings faith and confidence to the Government of Cuba and respect to Cuba as a nation.

In the spirit of our ideals under God, in the belief of the canons of Christian faith, in our concept of equal justice under law, the American people, the people of the Western Hemisphere, and of the whole world of religious faith, focus their eyes and hopes upon you to establish a free democratic government in Cuba founded upon the commandments of God, upon justice and mercy, and upon honor and integrity.

It is the hope of free people everywhere this new Government of Cuba, in the words of the great American Emancipator, President Abraham Lincoln, will be of the people, by the people, and for the people. Man must not assume unto himself that which belongs only to God.

Reform In Christian Education

A top Baptist leader told clergy and lay leaders from forty-five churches attending the opening of the ninth annual Glendale Christian Training Institute in Melrose on Jan. 8 that "there is a reform going on in education that has nothing to do with turning out more scientists."

The Rev. Dr. Paul L. Sturges, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention and president of the 1500-church Massachusetts Council of churches, said that the "current reform in Christian Education is going on in the nation's churches and homes rather than in the schools."

Speaking at the First Methodist church, with leaders of six Protestant denominations taking part, Dr. Sturges stressed that "there is a growing awareness in all Protestantism, that both the church and the home are responsible for nurture of the Christian faith."

"We commend you who instruct children and youth in these forty-five churches in these twelve communities, represented in the Glendale Institute," he said. "A sense of mission is driving more people to take positions of leadership in our churches and church schools - more people to grapple with the great problems facing the Christian around the world today."

"Children are your riches. The parents of America can strike a telling blow against the forces which contribute to our juvenile delinquency, if our mothers and fathers will take their children to Sunday school and church regularly."

"The work of our Church schools was never more important than it is today. Through meeting together and studying how to improve our ways of teaching, we can help build a Christian climate for better understanding."

The cities and towns represented included Arlington, Everett, Malden, Melrose, Wakefield, Reading, Woburn, Stoneham, Medford, Revere, Chelsea, and Saugus.

Furcolo To Veto Curb On Primaries

Governor Foster Furcolo made it plain last week that he favors open primaries for the election of candidates to state-wide offices.

He disclosed that he would veto any bill that would bar candidates from using the party names unless they were endorsed at the pre-primary conventions.

The Governor said "I hope there is some talk of having a convention with the selections being final so that no other candidate, except the convention's choice, could appear on the ballot in the primaries."

"In order to save everyone time and trouble, let me state right now that I will veto any such bill if it is passed," the Governor said.

DAY OF PRAYER

Under the auspices of the United Church Women of Arlington, the annual World Day of Prayer will be held Friday, Feb. 13, at 10:00 a.m. at the Unitarian church, Pleasant street and Massachusetts ave.

Members of the Woman's Club chorus will sing, and a short pageant descriptive of the missions sponsored by the United Church Women will be presented.

Dog Tales

By Mummy Dial

Once upon a time there was a boarding kennel operator who daily at feeding time went around with a large menu and asked at each cage, "And what'll you have to-night? Steak and gravy? Hamburger, medium rare? Beef stew?"

Purely a fictional character this kennel operator, whose real-life counterpart probably has a single adequate diet for all adult dogs in his care, unless he is a veterinarian with some on special diets for specific reasons.

To most boarding kennel operators, it's a standing joke when a patron comes in and announces that the dog he or she wants boarded won't eat anything but hamburger, cooked just so, or raw steak. That dog, more than likely, will soon be eating the same food as the rest of the boarded animals, and with equal relish.

If the dog of particular appetite will eat economical rations at a kennel, why will he spurn anything but expensive meats at home?

The kennel operator has two slight advantages in his favor. First, the power of suggestion operates when a dog realizes that others about him are eating; some instinctive fear that the other dogs might come in and gobble up his food, although actually that would be impossible, probably helps convince the dog he should eat what is before him.

Second, the kennel operator hasn't dulled the dog's appetite with between meal snacks and hence the animal is hungrier when offered his ration.

Beyond that, the kennel operator has no special magic, so it follows that you too can convert your dog from hamburger and steaks to a more economical and possibly more satisfactory diet.

If your dog's tastes are becoming too expensive in the midst of rising costs, there are two methods to switch him to the cheaper diet of your choice: the gradual and the abrupt.

These basic rules apply to adult dogs for either method:

1. Establish a regular feeding schedule, preferably once a day; just before your evening meal may be the most satisfactory hour.
2. Don't feed snacks between meals, except perhaps occasionally some small thing as a reward during training or for actual work performed.
3. Unless you have the heart to resist his begging or break him of it, don't allow him around the table while the family is eating; someone is apt to slip him a morsel.
4. Remove his dish and throw out the food if he doesn't eat it within 10 minutes.

Operating under these basic rules, the gradual method works like this: with the food the dog is accustomed to eating, thoroughly mix a small quantity of the food you have selected as his future diet. Increase the proportion of the new food daily until at the end of about a week the entire ration consists of the new food.

Unless the food is thoroughly mixed, the dog may separate the ingredients and eat what he likes, rejecting the rest. But as the proportion of his old favorite becomes less during the week, he will probably be hungry enough to eat the new.

The abrupt method simply entails making the conversion all at once.

In this case, the dog at first may turn away with a hurt or disdainful look, but don't let this weaken your resolve. Remove the food if he hasn't eaten it in 10 minutes and don't offer anything else until the established feeding time next day. In three or four days he will be hungry enough to accept the new food and will have suffered no harm in the meantime.

Local Missionary Reported Safe

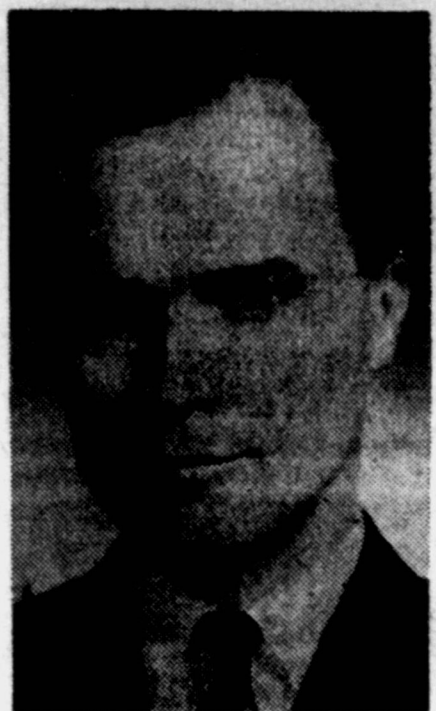

Three Baptist missionaries from Greater Boston serving in the Belgian Congo, where 42 persons were killed and more than 200 injured in two days of rioting recently, are reported safe, according to the Rev. Dr. Paul Lee Sturges, executive Secretary of the 300-church Massachusetts Baptist Convention.

Miss Margaret C. Alsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nils Alsen of 9 Jason ter, escaped harm in Leopoldville, the capital city of the Belgian Congo, where the serious rioting took place.

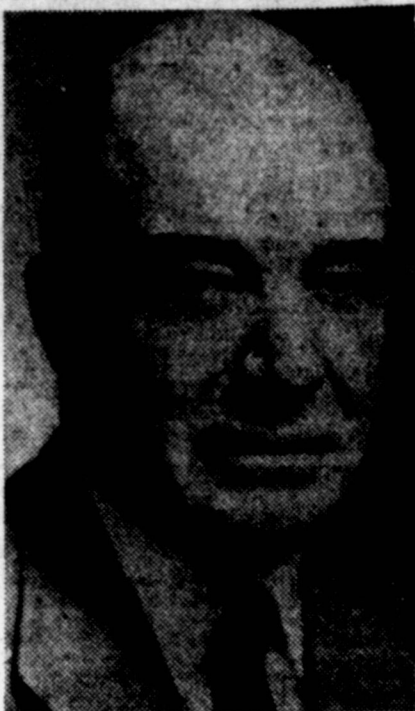

A message received reported no injury to Protestant missionaries or damage to mission property. He wrote that "all friends and relatives of the eleven American Baptist missionaries had been assured protection in the American Consulate General quarters in case of further outbreak. Most of those killed or injured were African, but millions of dollars of damage was done in the American section of the city."

Unemployment among Negroes in Leopoldville has been given as the probable cause of the riots. The trouble began after an unauthorized meeting of Abako, a nationalistic organization, was dispersed by native policemen, according to the reports.

Locals Due Home From Foreign Service

Another Arlingtonian, Francis Forgiore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forgiore, 63 Web-cowet rd., should be returning home early this summer from a two year tour of duty at the American Consulate General in Marseille, France.

Since entering the Foreign Service in October, 1955, Jones has also served at the American Consulate General in Rotterdam, Netherlands.

During this tour of duty, he was able to travel into Norway and Austria, and his duties, which entailed interviewing refugees and escapees from Europe, permitted him to get first-hand knowledge of these people and their way of life.

The past two years which have been packed with exciting experiences, such as the Riots of May 24, 1957; the Chief of Mission Conference, and the Taiwan Straits.

Prior to serving in France, Forgiore also spent two years in Iran at the American Consulate in Isaaan and temporary duty at the American Consulate in Meshed.

During this time, he was able to travel quite extensively to places such as Kerman, noted for its famous rug industry, and Persepolis, with its famous ruins which date back to around 550 b.c. He also visited the Bakhtiari tribal village at the invitation of the Chief.

COMPOSES HYMNS

A hymn composed by Mark Dickey, organist for several years at the First Baptist church here, is included in the new edition of the Pilgrim Hymnal (Congregational).

It is one of seven tunes composed by living composers.

Other hymns by Dickey appear in the Episcopal Hymnal, 1940 edition, and the Evangelical Mission Covenant of 1950.

Zonta Club

The after dinner speaker, at the Zonta meeting, Jan. 22, at the Winchester Country Club, was Miss Dorothy Nicoll, Head Nutritionist, in the State Dept. of Public Health. She was introduced by Hazel Cheever, who with Dr.

Helen Burke was hostess.

Having recently returned from a United Nations assignment in Indonesia and Africa, Miss Nicoll a native daughter of Arlington, told of her experiences within the home, the family living, the native customs, of these countries. She particularly stressed the work done by U.N.E.S.C.O. within the U.N. as being "unbelievable." It was an absorbing tale well told. Many pamphlets of pictures were passed among the group for inspection as well as yards of interesting fabrics.

Preceding this talk, Mary Simonds read a paper which was an appropriate tribute to Amelia Earhart Day. Miss Earhart was a member of the Boston Zonta Club.

Grace Scott furnished the Flower Fund prize, which was captured by Veronica Heinz.

Schools To Hold Open House

Monday, Feb. 2, is check-up day in Arlington's secondary schools. On that day both the high school and the junior highs will hold open house for parents.

Report cards go home just before the first of the month for the second marking period and these open house sessions offer parents an opportunity to talk with the teachers about their children's problems.

To avoid conflicts for parents who have children in both junior high and senior high, the junior high visitations will take place in the afternoon, and the senior high will receive parents in the evening.

At Junior High East visiting hours will be from 2:30 to 4, and at Junior High West they will be from 2 to 4.

Parents will be welcome at the Senior High School from 7 to 9 that evening.

Members of the student council will serve as guides at the high school.

Local Business Declared Healthy

(Special to the Advocate)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—Just how the average Arlington resident adjusted his spending during the recession, cutting down in some directions and expanding in others, is revealed in the current Consumer Markets Data study.

All in all, it is seen, once he became convinced that his income was not seriously endangered, he again demonstrated his voracious appetite for consumer goods. As a result, most local businesses stood up well. They went through the recession without too much suffering.

Exceptions were the heavy goods industries, which depend on selling their higher-priced products on installment credit. The average consumer, normally a cautious individual, cut down drastically on such purchases, refusing to add to his debt load. The retail spending picture, for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1958, is revealed in the annual study, made by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

It shows that business done by the various types of food stores in Arlington, selling food for off-premises consumption, totaled $11,980,000 in the year, or 31 cents of the retail dollar. The volume in the previous year was $11,139,000.

Sales of automotive equipment and supplies, including trailers and boats but not industrial vehicles, amounted to $10,916,000, equal to 28 cents of the dollar. This compares with $11,430,000 a year earlier.

General merchandise stores including department, variety and general stores, accounted for $1,205, or 3 cents, as against $1,187,000 previously. Shops selling clothing and other apparel grossed $1,489,000, amounting to 4 cents. The figure was $1,409,000 the year before.

Home furnishing stores took in $1,404,000, or nearly 4 cents, compared with $1,471,000 before.

More recently, retail business has been gaining in strength, a reflection of rising employment and of growing consumer confidence. There is less fretting about the future.

As a result, purse strings are being loosened and some of the money that was put into savings during the recession is now being brought out. What will be the direction of this spending in 1959? That is industry's big question.

School Secretaries Hold Tropical Party

The Parker House Roof took on a tropical atmosphere on Jan. 10 when the Massachusetts Association of School Secretaries had their winter meeting in the form of an Hawaiian Luau.

There were 186 secretaries in attendance.

The time and effort put into the preparations for this meeting by Miss Edith Anderson was reflected in the relaxation and pleasure which all who attended enjoyed.

Mrs. Grace Stafford of Arlington, president of the Association, presided and Miss Edith Anderson, also of Arlington, was program chairman. Other school secretaries attending from this area were Bernadine Buzzell, Marie McCullough, Elizabeth Beaton, Nellie Fisher, Gladys Hartwig, Margaret Kelliher, Mary Luciana, Marion McGrath and Marion Costello of the J. L. Hammett Company.

Bullock, Emerson Carley, Richard Carter, Joseph DiSilva, Frank Dorsey, Richard Hutchinson, Earle T. Jones, Kenneth C. Jones, Charles H. Kendall, Charles King.

Also Harry Loder, Paul Lyons, Jan Malouin, Raymond A. Minzner, Harry Patterson, Calvin Robinson, Ralph Scribner, Marshall Thompson, Frank Tillou, Charles Wharton, Harold McLaughlin, G. T. Fleming, Orin Spooner, James H. Fantazian, and John Peter.

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION

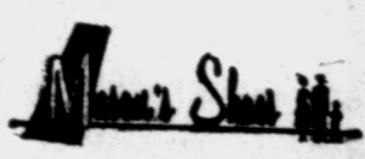

By Herb Mason
Owner of Mason's Shoes
Arlington center

What are children's feet coming to with the growing use of loafers, pumps, and other footwear lacking in support?

A concise answer to this question recently came from an Orthopedic Surgeon. When asked by a mother whether her daughter might wear patent leather dress shoes (even though she had been wearing orthopedic shoes for years), the doctor stated that he saw no reason why this particular youngster might not as long as discretion were used. By this he stressed the use of common sense, where dress shoes are not necessary too many hours of the week, the child would still spend her active time in good support shoes.

Of course in orthopedic work there are certainly many other youngsters whom the surgeon would not have been so broad minded about.

Bear in mind that proper use of loafers, pumps, etc. should be along these same lines. The more solid shoe should be used when active daily, and the lighter shoe, if necessary or desired, should be worn about as much as Mom can wear high heels during a work day, or Dad loafers on the job.

Appoint Heart Sunday Chairmen

The appointments of six Heart Sunday area chairmen in Arlington were announced last week by Charles H. Cremins, local general chairman of the door-to-door collections to be held February 15.

Those who will serve as district heads of the community-wide canvass on Heart Sunday, climax of the February Heart Fund drive, are Leonard E. Cancelliere, 40 Windsor st.; Miss Janet Taylor, 90 Alpine st.; Mrs. Sydney Noel, 81 Rhinecliff st.; Mrs. William Herlihy, 77 Bartlett ave.; Mrs. Charles H. Cremins, 64 Mt. Vernon st.; and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, 32 Hayes st.

Proceeds from the collection will support expanded programs of research, education, and community services in diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

More than half of all Massachusetts deaths are directly caused by diseases of the heart and circulation. The Massachusetts Heart Association has channeled well over a million dollars directly to research in the state in the past few years.

Women's Fellowship

The monthly meeting of the Women's Fellowship of Trinity Baptist church was held on Jan. 13. The first portion of the meeting was devoted to White Cross Missionary sewing and was followed by a luncheon prepared by a committee under the leadership of Marjorie Robinson.

The speaker of the morning was Mrs. Meriam Phillips, secretary to Rev. Robert Weaver, director of Mission Cooperation for the Massachusetts Baptist Convention. Her topic was "American Baptists on the Home Front" in which she stressed the need of Home Missions.

An exhibit of articles from Hawaii was on display through the courtesy of The Children's Museum of Boston. The flag of our newest state of Alaska was also on display.

The next meeting of the Fellowship will be a breakfast on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 11.

The speaker will be Mrs. Walter Harvey, past president of the Massachusetts Baptist Women.

Building To Start Soon For Aged

Construction of a modern housing development for elderly persons will probably begin during the first week of April at Reservoir Field, it was announced yesterday by Robert Hauser, secretary to the Arlington Housing Authority.

He said that the final plans for the new development are now completed and will be submitted to the State Authority this week for final approval.

"It may take as long as three weeks for the State to approve the plans," he said. "Then we must advertise for bids. All in all, the entire procedure may take two months, which would bring us into the early stages of April before actual construction begins."

Hauser said that the final plans, as submitted by the Arlington Authority, call for 56 apartments.

If present plans are approved, the entire development will include eight buildings, seven, two-story, apartment buildings, and a community building.

At Wentworth

Three Arlington students have been named officers of student organizations at Wentworth Institute in Boston, it was announced this week by H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth president.

Jerrett Kidd of 47 Lewis st. was appointed editor in chief of Tekton, Wentworth yearbook.

Charles Antworth of 80 Gloucester st. was elected secretary of the Contract Bridge and Cribbage Club.

Paul Donahue of 117 Appleton st. was elected secretary of the General Woodworking club.

Two Arlington Skaters Winning Top Reputation

Gail and Donna Kirkland

Two Arlington sisters have been busy this winter gaining for themselves a reputation as top notch speed skaters.

Gail and Donna Kirkland, 7 and 6 year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirkland, 48 River st., have taken top honors for the "under 8" division in most of the championships throughout the eastern states.

They placed second and third in the Middle Atlantic Outdoor meet at Newburgh, N.Y., and went on to take first and second places at the Connecticut Valley Open Championship.

Last weekend they came up with a repeat performance, winning in their class at the New England Outdoor Championships held at Wilmington.

In February they will enter the North American Indoor meet at Lake Placid, N.Y., and the Silver Skates Derby.

Gail and Donna have been speed skating for three years and belong to the Olympic Skating Club of Waltham.

— On The Bench —

with MILT SCHMIDT
Coach, Boston Bruins

Should a hockey coach shift around his forward lines? Yes and no.

It all depends on the situation and hockey is no different from other sports. Look at the way Casey Stengel juggles his New York Yankees lineup and keeps winning.

I'd say "no" to shifting lines if you've got a great line like the old Detroit Production line of Sid Abel, Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe or one like the Montreal "Punch" Line of Maurice Richard, Toe Blake and Elmer Lach.

But it would definitely be "yes" when you just fit combinations together at the start of the season.

I've always felt that when the team is in a slump, unless it has a real big line as I mentioned above, the best remedy is to shake up the players.

I've found out that I have lots of company in this belief.

Only recently Phil Watson caused a stir around the league when he announced the Rangers no longer would have set lines. It is his belief that it's to his advantage to change lines according to the opposition.

He claimed that Camille Henry could do a good job against the Rocket so he would cover the Rocket.

Dean Prentice, he felt, did the best checking job on Boom Boom Geoffrion. He feels that hockey players play different against different teams and so you have to improvise each game.

That's a bit more radical than I care to be. But he may have a point or two.

For example I never have to try to get my players pepped up before a game with Canadiens. Just the fact we're playing Canadiens has them all steamed up. Against Chicago or Detroit, though, it's a different story.

Getting back to line changes Toe Blake and Jack Adams feel the same way about it that I do.

Adams, who as Detroit's general manager and coach before that has had great success with the Red Wings, feels when a team's goal production falls off, it's time to shake up the lines.

Toe, who has won three straight Stanley Cups with Canadiens, goes along with that. He told me in Montreal recently:

"It makes sense to make changes when you're losing. Sometimes you make a change for a little while and then go back to the original lines. If you're losing, you can't stand pat. You have to try something to snap out of it."

W.S.C.S. Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Calvary Methodist church held its monthly meeting in the fellowship hall on Jan. 15, with coffee hour at 1:00 p.m.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles Laman, the business meeting was conducted by the vice president, Mrs. Thomas Butcher.

It was announced that The Arlington Family Service Association will hold its annual meeting on Jan. 23, in Library hall at 10:00 a.m. Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Flora Hunt, director of the Service, will tell of the work of the agency.

Devotions were led by Miss Elsie Seward secretary of Missionary Education.

The speaker was Twan Wreh, a student from Liberia who is majoring in journalism at Boston University. His subject was "The Roles of Religious Bodies in Liberia."

The reception committee for the afternoon was Mrs. William Green and Mrs. Daniel Matheson.

TD Club Meets

The regular meeting of the Touchdown Club was held Jan. 8, at the Fresh Pond Restaurant in Cambridge.

Over 100 Arlington residents were present.

The speaker of the evening was Lieutenant Loretto of the Massachusetts State Police.

He presented a moving picture which demonstrated the thoroughness used in training a trooper.

Many Antiques At Arlington Tackle

The Arlington Tackle Shop, 940 Mass. Ave., is open evenings from 5 to 10 p.m. and all day Saturday. There is a very good reason for its not being open during weekdays. The owner is Frank McCoy of 81 Hillside Ave. By day he is a civil engineer. In the evening he rushes home to open the Tackle Shop.

McCoy attends auctions throughout New England, searching for antique weapons. Many of the muskets on display at the Tackle Shop date back to Revolutionary days. The fact that they all fire as well as they ever did is a tribute to McCoy's skill as a gunsmith.

An Army and Marine veteran of more than twelve years, McCoy has obtained a collection of swords that has no equal among local collectors. He is constantly on the lookout for antique and modern edge weapons to add to his collection. McCoy is also interested in obtaining war souvenirs, old guns, powder flasks, and illustrated histories of the War Between the States. "We'll buy or trade," says Arlington's lone gun-

The Tackle Shop formerly handled fishing equipment also, but McCoy gave up this end of the business to devote more of his time to his first love . . . guns.

Colt, S and W, Ruger and Hi Standard target pistols and Browning, Remington and Winchester firearms are among the modern guns sold at the Tackle Shop.

Business Gains At Mary Alyce

The Mary-Alyce Specialty Shop is owned by Mrs. Veronica Heinz. Since purchasing the shop 18 years ago Mrs.

Heinz has insisted that the utmost care be given each customer.

The fact that mothers who were originally fitted at Mary-Alyce are now bringing their daughters in shows that the customers appreciate this service.

Three registered corsetiers are employed by Mrs. Heinz. Ellen Taft of Arlington has worked there for 17 years. Rose Monast of Arlington for nine years, and Rita Cole of Dorchester for five years.

Corelli Station Is Family Business

A single event in the life of a man can start a chain reaction which determines his whole way of life.

A prime example of this is James S. Corelli. Corelli is the owner of the J. S. Corelli Service Station at the corner of Mystic and Summer Streets.

In 1926 he suffered a broken leg. That fracture was the beginning of the career of one of Arlington's most popular personalities.

Unable to work at anything while he was recuperating, Corelli began to visit a nearby filling station. Eventually he began to work around the station. "I've been at it ever since," says the well-liked owner.

For five years he had the Sunoco station at Russell and Mystic streets. Then he moved into the Texaco station at his present location. He has owned the station since 1946.

How does the Corelli touch help in the business? When he took over the station the amount of gallons sold per month averaged 10,000. Shortly after he took over it jumped to 32,000 gallons per month.

Tuneups, generator and brake work, and minor repairs are handled at Corelli's. Jim's two sons, Dick and Jim Jr. help him at the station.

The station is open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

A resident of Arlington for over 30 years, Mr. Corelli and his family now live at 51 Cleveland street.

How do you get into the service station business? Jim Corelli has the answer "Break a leg."
